

aql call conferencing

conferencing on the go

Conferencing in motion

The aql call conferencing experience offers a dynamic and effective business solution for anyone on the move. The modern workplace is fast paced and quickly accelerating - schedules are full and diaries are bursting at the seams.

In today's busy environment it is not always easy to find the time to schedule group appointments and important conferences. Now you can with conference calling on the go; aql offers its customers convenient and effective call conferencing direct from your mobile handset.

No extra charges and no complicated PIN numbers or login procedures - simply call conferencing from the touch of a button.

Convenient conference Calling

Designed for today's global market place and adapted to suit your business needs. aql has developed convenient conference calling.

Setup is simple. Using our online interface you can schedule the conference call in advance, providing the numbers of all who intend to participate. When the conference is due to begin, we'll send an SMS to everyone invited. They need simply call the number contained in that text to be connected to the rest of the party.

Replay and rewind

It's not always easy to be prepared and take notes whilst on the move, which is why aql allow for all conference calls to be recorded.

It's never been easier to remember important details - when you arrive back at home or the office, simply log into your aql account to replay and repeat your important meetings and conference calls.

Benefits at a glance:

- Free and easy to use
- Voice recording for all conference calls
- No complicated PIN codes or login procedures required
- SMS invitations sent for easy access on the move
- Email reminders sent prior to the conference

Free up you schedule with conferencing on the go. Sign up for your aql account today.